SOURCE: GRAPHIC COMPETITIONS

A new graphic design book being published by HOW books is now accepting submissions. Selected work will be featured in Creative Anarchy due for release in late 2014.

Creative Anarchy will explore when to follow the rules and when to break them. Learn to throw design caution to the wind with tips, trends, designer stories and creative exercises. This is a book about great design and great ideas.

Submit your best rule-following and rule-breaking designs for this new book by Denise Bosler and HOW Books. Show us your best designs and tell us your story. We are looking for posters, brochures, logos, stationery, annual reports, web sites, apps, magazines, book design, advertising, packaging, t-shirts, custom type, guerrilla marketing.

Entries have to be 300 dpi resolution (or vector), CMYK. Minimum size 4 x 5 inches (8 x 10 inches preferred). Only TIFF, EPS, JPEG and PDF files accepted (Illustrator, InDesign and Quark native files are not accepted). Any font included must be vector (outlined). For web sites, apps or other interactive work, screen shots are acceptable.

There is no entry fee.

ELIGIBILITY

This Call For Submissions is open to professionals and students worldwide.

PRIZE

If your entry will be chosen it will be included in the book, and you'll receive a sizeable discount for the book.
