The first phase of iF Design Talent Award 2020 is now open for submissions. Design students from around the world are invited to submit ideas and concepts that address the most pressing challenges facing our society.

The iF Design Talent Award is one of the biggest and most prestigious competitions for young designers in the field of design worldwide. This world-renowned award stands for outstanding design achievements and helps you to stand out from the crowd. Use this special challenge and unique opportunity to prove your skills to an international jury of experts!

Submit as many concepts as you like – but each can only be registered once per competition. Your concept can be a product, a project, an application, a communication idea or a service concept. Entries can be submitted by individuals and also by teams of up to four people.

Your entry description should be in English for the international jury to access and judge.

There is no entry fee.

ELIGIBILITY

Open worldwide to all students and recent graduates of all design-related courses. Graduates who graduated no more than two years ago are eligible to participate.

PRIZE

An independent international jury of experts will award the best concepts and will divide the prize money of 40,000 EUR in total (20,000 EUR per round).
