The competition is open to all designers, illustrators, and artists 18 years of age or older anywhere in the world. Its mission is to empower new and existing designers to shine locally and globally.

What kind of messages do you truly want to leave behind for future generations? If you have any messages or points of view that you want to communicate and preserve 15 years from now, what do you think they should be? Lessons from the past? Current events? Far-sighted visions, warnings, expectations, hopes, or suggestions for the future?

What matters to us the most as individuals and as a society? What are the most important subject matters to our humanity and our planet right now and in years to come? What do we want to communicate ahead of time?

Do you think that posters will stay as stronghold pieces of communication after 15 years from now?

Let's find out! Let your voice be heard 15 years from now through your posters! Open to participants' points of view, concerns, warnings, hopes, rights, frustrations, lessons, visions, experiments, creativity, and artistic interpretations.
