Poster Stellars is an international poster design competition that brings together emerging and established creatives from across the globe, positioning itself as a leading platform for graphic design, visual communication, and artistic innovation. Organised in the United States, the competition encourages designers, illustrators, photographers, and visual artists to submit original poster works that reflect contemporary issues, experimental ideas, and bold aesthetics. With categories spanning published posters, unpublished thematic entries, and motion or animated posters, Poster Stellars highlights the evolving nature of poster design in both print and digital formats.

At its core, the competition is driven by a commitment to fostering global creative exchange and cultural dialogue through design. Each edition introduces a central theme, such as “Black – The Infinite Paradox”, which challenges participants to explore complex concepts, symbolism, and storytelling through visual language. This thematic approach not only pushes creative boundaries but also ensures that submissions remain relevant to current social, cultural, and artistic conversations, making Poster Stellars a significant event in the international graphic design calendar.

Beyond recognition, Poster Stellars offers valuable exposure and career-building opportunities for participants within the global design community. Selected works are showcased in curated exhibitions, featured in professional publications, and promoted across international media channels, helping artists gain visibility and credibility. By connecting creatives from different continents and disciplines, the competition strengthens networks within the creative industries and reinforces its reputation as a prestigious, forward-thinking poster competition that celebrates innovation, diversity, and excellence in design.

Entry fee: $30 USD (professionals) / $15 USD (students).
