UPDATE: deadline extended to December 16, 2016.

Streamers invites artists to reveal the development of projects from conception to completion, in a continuous online process that presents works of art in their relationship with the creative context.

Each artist is free to choose the theme of his or her project.

As the project develops over the call period, it will be possible to add online artwork or photographs. Also, use studies, notes, sketches or random printed material you've come across, which is inspiring or making you reflect or lending insight to your creative process.

Jurors expect to see creative contemporary artwork and narratives, as well as an ability to reveal the creative processes by which you and your work tackle issues, whether they be personal, social, political or economic. Any approach or practice is welcome, projects can range from being documentary to fine, contemporary art, nor is medium a limitation, projects can contain different media within the same submission - photography, video, painting, drawing, print, etc.

Entry fee: 50 Euro (approx. 55 USD) for one project (includes up to 59 images and/or videos). For additional projects: 40 Euro (approx. 44 USD).

ELIGIBILITY

Open to anyone worldwide.

PRIZE

• Prize Best Artistic Project: 6,000 Euro (approx. 6,700 USD) • Prize Best Project which changes a community: 2,000 Euro (approx. 2,230 USD)

The winners of the two awards will be announced during the opening of the final exhibition at the Officine Fotografiche, Rome, Italy, April 2017.
