SOURCE: GRAPHIC COMPETITIONS

The Terry O'Neill Photography Award is in its 8th year and recognised as one of the world's leading photographic awards attracting thousands of entries each year. This year we are taking the Award to the next level to make it the most innovative, accessible and valuable photography prize, providing the winners and runner-ups with unparalleled levels of publicity that set a new benchmark for other photography awards.

The Award launches with a fresh website and a mobile device category sponsored by The Royal Photographic Society. A new distinguished panel of judges from the arts and media are backed by an international publicity campaign to attract entries from Berlin to Beijing.

Award entrants must submit a minimum of 3 and up to a maximum of 10 images. Images must fall into the criteria of

• Reportage • Fashion • Documentary • Landscape • Wildlife • Portraiture • Fine Art Photography

The judges are seeking dynamic and arresting images that portray a compelling narrative. Entries can be black and white, colour or lens-based media. They must be sent over as small Jpeg files (72dpi) or no larger than 1mb. Images must have been shot between 01 January and 30th November 2013.

Standard Entry: £25 - Minimum of 3 and up to a maximum of 10 images Student Entry: £10 - Minimum of 3 and up to a maximum of 10 images

ELIGIBILITY

Photographers must be over 18 years of age on 1st January 2013.

PRIZE

The winners will have their work showcased in Terry O'Neill exhibitions in London and overseas and will be featured in the Sunday Times Magazine.

£6500 (approx. 10,100 USD) of cash prizes can be won. The winner gets £3000 and two runners-up £2000 and £1000 respectively. The winner of the mobile device category wins £500.
