The UCDA Design Awards 2020 are now open for submissions. The Awards program recognizes the best of the exceptional design and creative work done by communication professionals to promote educational institutions (secondary, vocational, or higher education) and supports the exchange of ideas and information relating to the unique role of these creatives.

The awards are judged by a hand-picked panel of peer jurors composed of designers, design educators, photographers, and illustrators working in or doing a significant portion of their work for educational institutions.

Winning entries will be part of the UCDA Design Show on display during the 50th annual UCDA Design Conference. The conference provides an opportunity to get an in-depth look at the issues facing designers and communication professionals, both in and out of educational institutions, and gain inspiration for better collaboration.

Please note: the deadline for submissions is April 3, with a late deadline of April 10, 2020.

ELIGIBILITY

Entries may be submitted by any institution, company, or individual involved in the creation or production of the work.

PRIZE

Winners will receive an award certificate to display proudly, higher visibility for you, your department, institution, or company and a great marketing opportunity to promote your services to colleagues, clients, or the media.
