The A' Design Award & Competition, internationally recognized as one of the world's most prestigious and inclusive design competitions, has officially unveiled the winners of its 2025–2026 edition. This year's results include 1,683 winners from 115 countries across 162 design disciplines, celebrating outstanding achievements in creativity, innovation, communication, and design excellence.

All entries were carefully evaluated by an esteemed international jury composed of influential design experts, seasoned industry professionals, press members, academics, and entrepreneurs. The evaluation process follows a rigorous methodology that ensures each submission is assessed on its merit, creativity, functionality, sustainability, and aesthetic value. The outcome is a broad collection of award-winning works that push boundaries and set new benchmarks in global design standards.

The A' Design Award offers five levels of distinction: Platinum, Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Iron. These accolades recognize remarkable projects and innovative products that demonstrate exceptional quality and creativity. Each award level reflects a different degree of design impact and relevance in its respective category, ensuring that both emerging talents and established professionals are fairly recognized.

This year's winners span a wide array of categories that mirror the complexity and richness of contemporary design. Good Spatial Design covers architecture, interior spaces, landscape projects, and urban developments. Good Industrial Design includes everything from furniture and appliances to vehicles and advanced industrial tools. In the realm of Good Communication Design, winners demonstrated excellence in graphic design, advertising, packaging, interaction, visual identity, and digital interfaces. Good Fashion Design celebrated outstanding work in clothing, accessories, and wearable innovations, while Good System Design recognized forward-thinking service models, business strategies, and user-centered innovations. Achievements in arts, literature, photography, digital art, animation, and cultural projects were also honored for their conceptual strength and originality.

Winners of the A' Design Award are not only presented with a trophy and certificate but also gain access to the exclusive A' Design Prize – a powerful promotional package tailored to increase the global visibility of each winning project. This prize includes extensive media outreach, multilingual press release distribution, publication in the annual yearbook, marketing support, and a lifetime license to use the A' Design Award Winner logo. Furthermore, their projects are exhibited in international galleries and featured in the "Best Designs of the Year" exhibition, attracting attention from buyers, publishers, and influential stakeholders.

A highlight of the competition is the glamorous gala-night held in Italy, where laureates gather for a prestigious ceremony that blends celebration with networking. The event provides an extraordinary platform for designers to connect with industry leaders, media, and peers from across the world.
