Now in its 10th season, the Architecture & Design Film Festival is the USA's largest film festival devoted to architecture and design.

Presented together with the Revada Foundation, the National Building Museum is hosting the festival for the second year, from February 21-24.

Over the course of four days, the festival will screen films connected to important issues and topics including justice, diversity, technology and more, through the powerful lens of architecture and design.
