Deadline: March 21, 2025

Website: graphiccompetitions.com

The Communication Arts 2025 Photography Competition is a prestigious global contest, attracting photographers of all skill levels from across the world. Known for recognizing outstanding creative talent, it offers participants the opportunity to showcase their work across a variety of categories, such as advertising, editorial, self-promotion, and institutional photography. With over 66 years of celebrating excellence in the visual arts, the competition serves as a prominent platform for photographers to gain international recognition. Entrants submit their work online, adhering to the competition's stringent file specifications and judging criteria.

Selected by an esteemed jury of art directors, designers, and professional photographers, the winning submissions receive extensive visibility through their inclusion in the Communication Arts Photography Annual. This annual is circulated globally in both print and digital formats, offering wide-ranging exposure to industry professionals. By being featured, winners position themselves among the elite in their field, gaining access to valuable networking opportunities with art buyers, creative directors, and design firms. The competition strictly prohibits AI-generated imagery, ensuring that the spotlight remains on human creativity and innovation.

In addition to the exposure provided by the Photography Annual, winning entrants receive the coveted Award of Excellence, a hallmark of the competition. Each winner is honored with a personalized, solid aluminum trophy, along with certificates for other creative contributors involved in the project. For photographers looking to establish or enhance their professional reputation, this competition is an unparalleled opportunity to elevate their work and gain recognition from peers and potential clients alike.

Entry fee: $40 for a single print entry, $80 for a print series, with different fees for video and student entries.
