The LensCulture Critics' Choice Awards 2025 is a prestigious international photography competition specifically designed to highlight and celebrate exceptional photographic talent across all genres. Each year, LensCulture assembles a diverse panel of renowned photography critics, curators, editors, and festival directors from around the globe. These esteemed experts independently select standout photographers whose compelling, original work demonstrates both technical mastery and creative innovation, offering participants a unique opportunity to gain recognition and exposure on a global scale.

Participating in the Critics' Choice Awards can significantly elevate a photographer's career, opening doors to influential industry connections and broadening their professional network. Photographers selected by the critics benefit from heightened visibility, as their winning images are prominently showcased through LensCulture's extensive digital platforms, which reach millions of viewers, collectors, galleries, and media professionals worldwide. This targeted exposure positions photographers advantageously, providing essential validation and helping to propel their creative careers to the next level.

Beyond recognition, the Critics' Choice Awards serves as an invaluable platform for critical appraisal, enabling photographers to have their work seen and evaluated by influential figures who shape contemporary photography discourse. The awards foster artistic growth by facilitating meaningful dialogue between artists and critics, thereby inspiring innovation, diversity, and excellence in photography. With an emphasis on authenticity and visionary storytelling, the LensCulture Critics' Choice Awards continues to discover and elevate the most exciting photographers shaping the future of visual culture.

Entry fees vary based on submission type, with a free entry option available for single-image submissions.

Eligibility
