

The Nature Photography Contest 2025

Category: Photography

Deadline: November 15, 2025

Website: graphiccompetitions.com

The Nature Photography Contest 2025 is an international photography competition designed to highlight and celebrate the extraordinary beauty and diversity of the natural world. Open to photographers of all experience levels—from enthusiastic amateurs to seasoned professionals—the competition invites participants worldwide to submit striking, original images that capture compelling scenes of wildlife, landscapes, plants, and ecosystems. By spotlighting powerful imagery, the contest not only inspires admiration for nature's wonders but also raises critical awareness about environmental conservation and sustainability issues.

Each submission directly contributes to global ecological restoration efforts, as organizers pledge to plant one tree for every entry received. This impactful initiative aligns the contest with meaningful environmental action, offering photographers the chance to make a tangible contribution to global reforestation and biodiversity preservation. Participants become part of a broader community dedicated to protecting the planet, with their creative talents directly fueling conservation initiatives aimed at combatting climate change and deforestation.

The competition culminates in recognizing outstanding photographic talent through carefully selected awards and honors, positioning winners prominently within the international photography and conservation communities. The grand prize winner is granted the unique privilege of selecting the country where the contest's tree-planting efforts will be focused, further emphasizing the contest's commitment to tangible environmental change. By participating, photographers not only showcase their artistry on a global stage but also actively engage in promoting ecological responsibility and environmental stewardship.

Entry fee: €10 per photograph submitted.

Eligibility

Open worldwide to individuals aged 18 and over.

Prize

The contest offers a total prize pool of €2,000 in cash awards. Beyond monetary rewards, the competition emphasizes environmental impact; for every participant, a tree is planted, and the grand prize winner selects the country for this reforestation effort.
